

The Royal Institution
Science Lives Here

Congratulations on finishing your Ri Masterclass series

Ri Masterclasses are part of a nationwide programme of mathematics, engineering and computer science classes which have been running since 1981.

The Ri Masterclasses were inspired by Sir Christopher Zeeman, who gave the CHRISTMAS LECTURES in 1978. The CHRISTMAS LECTURES are entertaining and informative science events held by the Royal Institution for young people, broadcast on UK television. Each year, the theme inspires Royal Institution programmes, including family events, online videos and resources for schools.

Your certificate has been signed by the Ri Director Dr Shaun Fitzgerald. "Our vision is for a world where everyone is inspired to think more deeply about science and its place in our lives. The Ri Masterclasses are a big part of fulfilling this vision. Bringing top experts from academia and industry together with keen and talented young people all around the UK, these hands-on and interactive extracurricular sessions are a great part of a lifelong journey with science at the Ri."
